FOR IMMEDIATE RELEASE

ROBBIE ROBERTSON'S "FEAR OF FALLING,"
FEATURING ERIC CLAPTON AND STEVE WINWOOD,
IS NO. 1 AT ADULT CONTEMPORARY RADIO

How To Become Clairvoyant – The Collection Is Out Now

"Fear of Falling," the latest single from Robbie Robertson's acclaimed 2011 album How To Become Clairvoyant, is No. 1 on the FMQB Adult Contemporary radio chart. The track features Eric Clapton, who co-wrote the song with Robertson, and Steve Winwood.

Rolling Stone called Robertson and Clapton's vocal and guitar exchanges "sublime roughage, the sound of two men with shared roots still moving forward" and praised Winwood's "throaty bolts of organ" while People Magazine hailed "Fear of Falling" as the album's "soulful stand-out."

Robertson recently celebrated the release of How To Become Clairvoyant – The Collection with a sold-out appearance at the GRAMMY® Museum's Clive Davis Theater. Limited to 2,500 signed/numbered copies, the set features 10 pieces of art by Richard Prince, clairvoyant and film noir-style photos by photo artist/filmmaker Anton Corbijn and art from the historic archives of magician Ricky Jay. Sante D'Orazio, Maureen Lambray and art director David Jordan Williams created additional artwork. The collection includes a 50+ page art book, an individually numbered set of five lithographs, a set of 8 original tarot cards and a music book that includes the album plus 10 bonus tracks in vinyl and CD formats and a DVD with multi-track files of three songs.
